NEW IT TRAINING RESOURCE :LYNDA.COM

A new IT training resource is available to all staff and students.

Lynda.com is a large online library of instructional videos covering the latest software, which is available for all members of the University to access for free. Taught by industry experts and experienced teachers, lynda.com is a valuable resource for those looking to develop skills in a wide range of areas, from mastering Excel to advertising jobs on LinkedIn. New videos are added on a regular basis.

The online videos, which sit alongside the IT Learning Programme's classroom-based courses, help you brush up on existing skills as well as learn about new software. You can choose to view a complete course or just opt for bite-sized videos as you need them.

You can access lynda.com using your Oxford single sign-on at courses.it.ox.ac.uk/lynda.
